Description

There could be a Universal Settings tab with features such as a) amenity priority (i.e., hirelings > goblins > ponies, kind of redundant since if you took the time have any of these available you would want all of them untilized; however, here is where further customization could be implemented [i.e., hirelings=T1, goblins=T2, ponies=AutoTier, allowing each type of amenity to be used for user chosen tiers of resources, or even auto appropriate resources]) , b) guild hall/house list of depot priority, c) run any broker tasks (i.e., collect coin, search for items to buy within specific costs, restock craftable goods for sale [this would auto poll character specific lists obviously]), and a Character Settings tab with identical features that would override Universal Settings anytime that character runs any BJ Inventory features. Where applicable the Universal Settings' tasks could poll from the Character Settings details to discern what items it wants/keeps on/from broker.
