Description
I have noticed that when I have multiple crafters working at the same time on the same computer they tend to confuse each other by trying to complete each others recipes. Seems worse when they share a crafting station. I tried seperating the crafters, one on my main system and one on a second and still have the same results occassionally. Thanks!

I had the same issue, and was told to make sure they weren't grouped.. Evidently quests/etc are shared in memory across the group. I de-grouped, and it solved my issues completely.
