Description
It's already reached the point where I can't fully read mission steps in the bot ui, and have to load the xml in an editor. Several of the labels used in the mission steps setup are just annoying. "Command", "Parameter" for example. If you really need to spell out that each step is a step, maybe you could pick shorter labels like "cmd" or "param" or "arg" or something. I'd actually argue that I don't need to see that at all, but really if I could just get some real estate back so I could read the actual info it would be great. Alternatively you could make the ui itself even bigger so that we can read the tiny bits of info hidden by the labels.
