Description

It does not appear that the current recipe data type has the Product and Product Classes members. My goal was to only craft say level 124 expert spells for a particular class like wizard. If you open your recipe book and mouse over a recipe the popup shows the Product and Product Classes fields. The current Classes and NumClasses are for who can make the recipes vs Product Classes which is for who can use the item that is crafted. I've attached some images with examples.

Might also be nice to be able to open an examine window for the item that the recipe creates. You can see this by examining any recipe and click on the icon under Produces. You can see the example of this in the attached image examine_product.jpg.

Thanks in advance for considering this request! Appreciate all that you do!

I wasn't able to get the "Product Classes"; however, the other stuff is added with version 20231212.0009
